ENGLISH 213: COMPUTERS IN THE STUDY OF ENGLISH TEST-OUT REGISTRATION FORM
Saturday, September 6, 2008, 8:30 am – noon
Ross Hall, Room 124

ELIGIBILITY: To be eligible for the English 213 Test-Out Exam, you

- can currently be enrolled in 213
- must have at least a sophomore classification
- must have completed English 150 (formerly 104) and 250 (formerly 105)
- must be taking the test-out for the first time (university policy prevents repeats)

THE TEST: The 213 Test-Out has two parts: Part One focuses on Practical Skills, including manipulating a Photoshop document, reformatting a MSWord document, and using electronic databases to conduct a bibliographic search. Part Two takes the form of a rhetorical evaluation essay on a Web site used in English studies. You will write the exam on a computer in a Ross Hall computer lab. Three hours will be allowed to write the exam.

ACCOMMODATION: If you require accommodation for a disability, please indicate your needs on the registration form and provide university documentation. If you require an alternative test day for religious reasons, contact the Director of Advanced Communication.

WHAT TO BRING TO THE EXAM: Pencils, pens, and student IDs ONLY will be permitted in the test lab. DO NOT bring notes, books, or backpacks.

FEE: A non-refundable $100 test-out fee will be placed on your university bill, which will be processed after you have taken the exam.

EVALUATION: The Advanced Communication Committee compares your performance on the exam to the writing of a good 213 student who has taken the course. Both parts of the test must receive a satisfactory rating for you to earn "T" (test-out) credit. You will be notified by an e-mail message within six weeks of the exam whether or not you have earned this "T" credit. If you receive "T" credit, it will be posted at the end of the semester in which you took the exam.
