

W. Paul Jones Award

Application Deadline: Tuesday, February 19, 2019

The W. Paul Jones Award is given to a doctoral student in the Rhetoric and Professional Communication Program in recognition of scholarly excellence. The award honors Professor Jones' dedication to the teaching of writing and to the use of clear and precise language in imparting technical and scientific information.

Applicants must submit a scholarly paper written after admission to the ISU Ph.D. Program in Rhetoric and Professional Communication. This work may be a seminar paper written for an ISU graduate course, a conference paper, or a paper prepared for publication, as long as its subject is rhetoric or professional communication. The applicant must have been a full-time ISU graduate student for at least one semester during the current academic year and must not have completed the preliminary doctoral examination at the time of application.

The award recipient will be selected by a committee of graduate faculty members from the Department of English, and the decision will be based solely upon the scholarly merit of the submitted work.

Submit your completed applications (including this page and a form cover sheet) to 203 Ross Hall.
